

Natural Green Tea Can Help Care For Our Teeth

Green Tea may be one way to help prevent cavities by diminishing the bad bacteria that adhere to enamel on our teeth and feed on sugar and so generates acids in the formation of plaque. These acids (e.g., lactic acid) then dissolve our tooth enamel. Although brushing is necessary, studies have shown that Green Tea can suppress the process (glucosyl-transferase) by which cariogenic bacteria create glucan and form cavities. Green Tea can also help destroy carcinogenic bacteria. To take advantage of these benefits of green tea, we must sip it as a tea. (We also can still use Green Tea extract capsules by opening them into a cup of warm water and drinking it as a tea.)

Greens, whether we eat them, or drink them can be a great benefit to our health. There is an all- day, energy green drink...that we can drink called Hi-OCTANE for Health and Life.
